10:15 – 10:45	Keynote 2: The EVER Changing Role of the Chief Digital Officer The only ever constant thing in the world is change. Heraclitus More than 2000 years later, this remains true. As we brave the new information age, change is inevitable. Management must transform the way they approach the digital platform. Now more than ever, to be ahead of the game, it is important for companies to keep up with technological advances, the various mediums available to reach out to current and future customers. To streamline workflow, to save costs, to increase the company's agility, while not compromising its strength. The CIOs must realize his role is constantly broadening, and that he must embrace all that is digital. The CIO has to evolve to become a Chief Digital Officer. To realize that the role is constantly expanding could be daunting. Savvis, through its Infrastructure Optimization Initiative will become the vehicle to tide these changes. Infrastructure optimization is a, systematic process for assessing an organization's IT infrastructure and application platform across capabilities in order to provide an optimization roadmap toward a Dynamic IT. Through IO, Savvis looks to provide companies best practices for them to reduce costs as well as underutilized infrastructure. Come sit in during the 4th CXO Leadership Summit on 25 September, and find out how we should navigate the change together. Mr. Mark Smith Managing Director

10:45 – 11:15	Keynote 3: Information Technology: A Strategic Asset to Business Transformation In an information-rich environment, Information Technology (IT) is becoming the primary driver to enable business growth and critical decision making. It is therefore important for business leaders to start shifting their attention towards technology and rethink about the use of IT to deliver the desired business outcome. With these changing views of the business, IT leaders would expect to play more roles on the demand-side of business as compared to the past where the emphasis was on the supply-side. The speaker will share with the audience research findings, key focus areas on the shift in IT roles, toolkits and programmes that would help organisations embrace the change effectively. Dr. Charles Ling Director Strategic Technology Management Institute (STMI)
